

BAMS (Bachelor of Ayurvedic Medicine and Surgery)

BAMS (Or: Bachelor of Ayurvedic Medicine and Surgery) is an integrated degree in the medical field, and is specially designed to teach students the systems of the traditional Indian system of Ayurveda.

The BAMS is awarded after the completion of 5 years and 6 months' degree program. This period includes the 4 and a ½ year academic session and one-year internship program with live practical.

Ayurveda is widely accepted in India as an alternative to western medicine. If you are interested in the traditional Indian system of medicine and are ready to deal with difficult languages like Sanskrit, then go for BAMS. Moreover, the course also puts less financial burden on you, since its fee is much lesser than that of MBBS.
